

Humboldt Faculty and Staff,

The Learning Center is excited to support Cal Poly Humboldt students as we launch into our first full year as a polytechnic. There are a number of new services--in addition to those you have come to expect--that we want to share with you:

New @ the Learning Center

- Online Learning Strategies Video Workshops through Student Lingo
- Expanded learning tools on our digital resources webpage
- After-hours online tutoring for math, statistics, writing, and logic through NetTutor.
- New Supplemental Instruction sessions for Psych Stats (Psyc 109)
- New tutor scheduling software for students to easily search for tutors and make appointments online
- New point person for tutoring coordination: Michele Miyamoto is now coordinating tutoring, peer coaching, and referrals

 $\frac{1}{2}$
Grade
Students who regularly participate in Supplemental Instruction have a highly significant predicted increase of a half letter grade (.5 point) in their course G.P.A. compared to their counterparts.

 $\frac{1}{3}$
Grade
Students who engage in tutoring twice weekly have a highly significant predicted increase in course G.P.A. (.2 to .4 points) than those that do not participate in regular tutoring.

Academic Support Services

Supplemental Instruction - for most intro science courses, logic, and psych stats

Tutoring - drop-in Science & Math Labs; General Tutoring for other disciplines

Writing Consultations - for any discipline; online, in person, and through email

Academic Peer Coaching - support for time management and learning study strategies

SkillShops - in-person workshops on college success strategies; asynchronous workshop on writing with sources and avoiding plagiarism

Referrals - use the referral link on our home page to connect students with the Learning Center

Responsive Support

We continue to provide students with in-person and online options. Students can request online tutoring if they want to meet outside our regular online hours, and we're ready to pivot services if necessary.

Connect with Us

We have a team of roughly 100 student leaders and professional staff here to support students and you. We welcome your questions (and ideas!) and look forward to working with you! Reach out by email, learning@humboldt.edu, or phone, 707-826-5217.

Best wishes for the year ahead,

Su Karl
